

Are you an online marketing superstar (m/w/d) and looking for a new challenge?

Working student Social Media Management (m/f/d)

What you'll do

- You create social first content for our social channels (Instagram, Facebook, Twitter)
- You develop and create new content formats in accordance to our social media strategy
- You contribute to our in house content production with your creativity and knowledge and/or by being in front/behind the camera yourself
- You look for social media trends which we can adapt to our brand
- You work closely together with our young and skilled marketing and communications team

What you'll bring

- You study marketing, communications, or any media related major
- You like to play golf or are interested in what is happening in the golf world
- You love everything related to digital communication and you are skillful and confident in your work with social media tools and networks
- You are very creative and have tons of new ideas
- You know how to work independently and how to structure your tasks efficiently

What you'll get

- A challenging and rewarding position in an international team
- The opportunity to shape the future of sports utilizing cutting edge technologies
- An open feedback culture with flat hierarchies and an agile company spirit
- A high degree of collaboration and autonomy within a group of diverse, highly qualified, and helpful peers
- Flexible working hours, home office, and opportunities for personal growth
- A professional hardware setup

Sounds good?

Job descriptions are not always clear, so feel free to drop us a line if our upcoming challenges appeal to you. To find out more about us and what we do, we invite you to visit our social media channels and website

Viewlicity GmbH

Lukas Posniak

Email: jobs@puttview.com

